KEYMACRO is a software that emulates a hardware keyboard, allowing you to type any Unicode character, including alphanumeric and special characters, using only the keyboard. P2P Messenger
P2P Messenger is a P2P-based instant messaging program, which enables you to communicate in real time with other P2P users. It supports multiple protocols, including XMPP, SIP, AIM, Google Talk and Yahoo! Messenger. As an instant messaging client, it is able to connect to the Internet and check the status of your friends' presence online. It supports end-to-end encryption, thus preventing eavesdropping and suspicious log-ins by third-party users. It supports multiple platforms, including Windows 7, Windows XP, Windows Vista, Windows 2000, Mac OS X, Linux, Unix and OpenSolaris.

Installation and Operation The software is compatible with most popular instant messengers, including Pidgin, Adium, Empathy, GAIM, Trillian and others. You do not need to install any additional components to get going. The installation is pretty straightforward, as the setup is facilitated by a wizard. You are taken through an overview of the included components, which can be either self-installed or pre-installed, and you are asked to confirm the changes. After completing the installation, you are given the option to add a connection and start using the program. KEYMACRO

Seamonkey Mozilla ☆☆☆☆☆

Samversion 1.2 Description:

Seamonkey is an open source web browser based on the Mozilla Firefox web browser. Its development is supported and maintained by the community itself. It supports most of the standard Firefox features, but it has a web browser engine that is slower than that of Firefox, as it does not use the Gecko engine. Moreover, Seamonkey is more lightweight than Firefox, as it does not use the full features of the Gecko engine, such as add-ons and other customization. Because of this, it can run on a variety of systems, without any problems. The current version of Seamonkey is based on the Firefox 11.0.1 browser. However, the source code of the current version is relatively old, as it is based on the Firefox 5.0.x browser. Seamonkey Mozilla Features: * Supports most of the standard Firefox features, such as add-ons, history, bookmarks, toolbars, etc. * A lot of configurable settings * Integrated search engine * Very fast due to its minimalist design * In the future, an official Seamonkey for the Windows platform will be released
